About Junior Open House Festival

Junior Open House Festival is our city's first ever free and inspiring children's architecture festival in 2012. The two day festival will turn young people into detectives of architecture – Architectives! by exploring great architecture in the City of London's Square Mile, and forms part of the 20th anniversary celebrations of Open-City.

Junior Open House Festival would like to thank the many organizations, people and practices that have contributed to our programme and helped to realize the festival: 155 Bishopsgate, Barbican Centre, Bishopsgate Institute, British Land, Broadgate Estates, Broadgate Tower, City of London Corporation, City of London Open Spaces – City Gardens, Evguenia Jokhova, Goldsmith's Hall, Jason Badrock, Leadenhall Market, London Symphony Orchestra, Plasterer's Hall, Urban Interactive, Sandra Slepikaite, WHAT_architecture, We Made That Llp, Yatwan Hui.

About Open-City

Open-City is London's leading independent, not for profit organization that aims to be at the centre of creating better places – and a better city. Our education and event programmes give the opportunity for everyone to enjoy and celebrate the buildings and places where we live and work. We inspire young people to explore the architecture of our city and lead the way in learning about urban design.
