

Read-along with Radio ... Read-along with Radio ... Read-along with Radio

SNIFFY and LUGS

Read-along with Radio ... Read-along with Radio ... Read-along with Radio

Sniffy and Lugs

Sniffy and Lugs are two very clever dogs. They live with their owners Tom and Helen in a little house close to the sea.

Sniffy has a long pointed nose. Sniffy is always on the look out for new smells to sniff.

"What's that smell?"

Lugs has big sticky up ears. Lugs is always on the look out for new sounds to hear.

"What's that noise?"

Every week Tom and Helen take Sniffy and Lugs on an outing. Can you guess where they are today?

Sniffy and Lugs jump down from the car and land on soft green grass.

Sniffy can smell sausages frying. "Yum, yum, sausages," says Sniffy.

Lugs can hear lots of people talking. "Chatter, chatter, chatter," says Lugs.

Sniffy can smell lovely flowers. "Roses are my favourite," says Sniffy.

Lugs can hear the sound of coins being dropped in a tin.

"Clink, clink, clink," says Lugs.

Sniffy can smell the smell of old garden tools.

"They smell of metal and soil and carrots," says Sniffy.

Lugs can hear music being played on an old radio. "I like that tune," says Lugs.

Do you think you know where Sniffy and Lugs are?

There is grass and chatter, money and flowers and books and lots of old tools.

Where can they be?

Sniffy has found an exciting brown pot on the ground.

"Sniff Sniff. Sniff Sniff..... ah ah choo!"

"Oh, what was that?" says Sniffy.

Sniffy must have smelled something that made him sneeze.

"That was an old pepper pot. Be more careful when you sniff things," says Lugs.

"You never know what might be inside."

Poor Sniffy I think he'll be more careful next time.

Lugs has found something interesting. He pats it. It is round and made of metal.

He puts one of his big pointy ears next to it. BRRRRRRR...ing.

"Ouch," says Lugs. "What was that?"

Lugs touched something that made a very loud noise.

"It was an alarm clock," says Sniffy.

"Be more careful when you put your ear too close to something," says Sniffy.

"You never know how loud the noise might be."

Poor Lugs.....I think he'll be more careful next time.

Sniffy and Lugs carry on exploring. Sniffy keeps sniffing and Lugs keeps listening.

Do you think you know where they are yet?

Yes, they are at the boot sale. Every Saturday morning there is a boot sale in the little sea side town.

Tom and Helen like to visit the boot sale to buy plants and tools for their garden.

Sometimes they buy old books or vegetables.

This week Tom and Helen have bought some books.

"Time to go home," says Tom. Sniffy and Lugs jump back into the car. They have had an exciting morning at the boot sale.

I wonder where Sniffy and Lugs will be exploring on their next outing.